BODY OF J. L. GIBSON, ENGINEMAN, IS FIRST FOUND IN SUNKEN SUB

WORD OF FINDING OF GIBSON'S BODY CAME IN MESSAGE FROM ADMIRAL CHRISTY

IT INDICATED THAT THE DIVERS HAD PENETRATED THE HULL IN SEARCH OF BODIES

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

A second body, that of William Teschemacher, first class seaman of Bangor, Pa., was taken from the hull soon afterward.

Teschemacher was a twin brother of Frederick Peter Teschemacher, first class seaman, who also perished as he is believed to have been at the conning wheel when the ship sank.

U. S. Submarine Base, New London, Conn., Sept. 29. — The sunken submarine S-51 today began to yield up its dead.

The body of J. L. Gibson was the first found. His body was taken from the battery room of the submarine which was rammed and sunk Friday night by the steamship City of Rome.

Gibson was an engineman, first class. His home was in Portland, Ore.

Word of finding Gibson's body came in a message from Admiral H. H. Christy, aboard the U. S. S. Camden.

It indicated to navy officers here that divers have penetrated the hull and are searching for bodies.

The message said: "The first body to be taken from the battery room was identified as that of John L. Gibson, Portland, Ore. He has a wife living in New London."

Divers Hampered by Heavy Seas

The divers had been halted by the ground swells and adverse tides. Christy had sent them down in the evening with instructions to go through the battery room hatch and to explore within. During the evening Harry Reinhardt and William Reid, civilian divers, were put overboard from the diver ship Chittenden.

Neither could explore the interior of the submarine. It was dark below and for some reason there was no submarine lighting device used apparently.

During the night a grim rumor went through the ranks of the enlisted personnel that the Cheewink had been ordered to take down to the rescue fleet two score of new blankets. The story ran that they were to be the shrouds for men from the S-51, but officers afterwards said the consignment was simply intended as extra supplies in which to wrap divers when they came from the water.

What will be done with the bodies when brought out of the hull is not decided, but they probably will be brought back to this old New England town where so many pioneers of the seas have been brought back to sleep along the Thames.

New London was "home" to many of the S-51 folk as much home as seafarers ever have.

If, as now seems quite probable, some are brought forth alive, they will probably be taken to the naval hospital at Newport, though it is barely possible that they will be taken in here.

Cranes Forced From Scene of Wreck

It was the second time in two days that the cranes had been forced from the scene of the wreck. Yesterday they had lumbered into the lee of Block Island when the sea swells proved too much for them.

The news from Admiral Christy that rough water was running came as a shock here. Weather ashore was ideal, no wind was blowing and an autumn sun gave promise of turning almost to summer heat.

It is now possible that the navy will be forced to revert to its reserve plan of "blowing up" the submarine, that is, pumping her full of air in the hope that the stern, balloon-like will up end. But Christy's message

SKULLS ARE CRACKED AS CAR AND TRAIN MEET IN COLLISION

Milwaukee, Sept. 29.—(UP)—W. R. Fortney, 40, Waynesborough, Pa., salesman, and Clarence O. Barrie, local mechanical engineer, are dead as the result of injuries received when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a St. Paul road train here last night.

Both suffered fractured skulls and internal injuries and died at Emergency hospital a short time after being taken there.

METHODISTS CONVENE AT FERGUS FALLS

cast no light on this point, saying only that the diving operations are being resumed. The admiral's message was dated shortly before 8 a. m. and was received here a few minutes later.

Admiral Christy, whose motto had been "save life," sent divers down this morning after the derricks Century and Monarch, unable to weather the rough seas, had been sent in to Newport, the second time they had been beaten from the wreck scene.

Life could not be saved on the plunge. Instead a corpse was found in the battery room. This compartment had been torn asunder by the sharp bow of the steamer City of Rome, when on Friday night she was plowing up the sound bound for Boston.

A stricken widow here in New London is the first to know the exact fate of a loved one aboard.

Gibson made his home here in a neat little dwelling.

Gibson's body, after being lifted out of the shell, was quickly identified. All the identifications, tags and finger prints were sent previously to the Camden against the time when bodies should be brought to the surface.

At the base one pictured that the diver had gone into the battery room and probably stumbled across the body of Gibson. It was thrust out of the way of the diver's leaden shoes, a line was attached to it and it was brought aloft.

The diver during the day should find other bodies. His task, it is believed was primarily to close vents and hatches and to open certain valves but he will surely do what he can to bring more to the surface, to lift the load of anxiety and uncertainty from the hearts of kin ashore. Officers assumed here that the diver's instructions from Admiral Christy had been to send up any corpses which could easily be moved. Others lodged away and not easy to shift would probably remain until such time as the submarine had been hoisted and opened.

Though broken by anxiety, Mrs. Gibson had steeled herself to expect her husband's death and she took the tragic message of Commander Scanlon and his companions well under the circumstances. It seemed to bring the relief that goes with certainty after days of uncertainty.

A message to the submarine base at 10:30 related that two divers had gone down and one was working inside the hull and the other outside.

BRING BODY ABOARD SHIP

Aboard U. S. S. Camden, Flagship of Admiral Christy, Sept. 29.—(By radio to United Press)—The first body to be taken from the sunken hull of the S-51, that of J. L. Gibson, was brought aboard the Camden at 7:30 A. M.

Divers went to work at 5 A. M., entering the submerged craft by the forward hatch beneath the mounted gun.

The body was in good condition. William Reid of Bayonne, N. J., was the diver who opened the hatch and first sent the body to the surface.

The Camden's flag was put at half mast.

HUGE WATER POWER PROJECT IS UNFOLDED

TO USE CHAIN OF LAKES BETWEEN MINNESOTA AND ONTARIO

INTERNATIONAL UNDERTAKING UNFOLDED BEFORE JOINT HIGH COMMISSION

International Falls, Minn., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Plans for a gigantic international water power project in the chain of lakes between Minnesota and Ontario was unfolded before a joint high commission of the Canadian and United States governments today.

By the plan proposed to the commission, seven dams would be constructed at various points in northern lakes, which drain into the Pigeon river and thence into the Great Lakes. Lake levels would be materially affected, it is said, by the project.

E. W. Backus, Minneapolis, representing power interests in the Twin Cities, made the proposals and argued for acceptance by the commission. He said the water project with its huge power plant at International Falls would be a boon to all industries of the northwest and would not harm recreational value of the Pigeon river country.

He asked commissioners for the two countries not only to approve the plan but to urge their governments to share expense of the project. Damages from the flooding of thousands of acres in the summer resort region would be paid by the two countries, according to the proposals. Backus admitted, however, that the project was worth development even if its costs were met by the development company.

HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDERING HIS GRANDMOTHER

Phillips, Wis., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Following his confession to authorities Elmer Door, 15, is held in the county jail here today on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Door, 78. The woman was found dead at her home five miles south of here. Her head had been badly beaten with a heavy iron crank. According to authorities the boy said he went to the home and was refused admittance by the grandmother, who was alone at the time. He broke the glass in the door with his fist, according to the story, walked in and then beat the aged lady to death with the crank.

The boy was arrested here under suspicion while unloading brick at a local lumber yard. At the inquest he freely admitted the crime, according to authorities.

Mrs. Door had been living at the farm home with her son and grandson and she is said to have had some trouble with the youth, who had not been staying at the home previous to the tragedy.

DESPERATE JAIL BREAK THWARTED AT LINCOLN, NEB.

CONVICT AND PRISON GUARD SLAIN LATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

TWO RIFLES, AMMUNITION AND NITRO GLYCERINE BOMBS SMUGGLED INTO PRISON

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 29.—(UP)—An investigation was started at the state penitentiary today following the slaying of a convict and a prison guard late yesterday in one of the most desperate attempts ever made to flee the prison.

The dead were Fred Brown, notorious murderer and kidnaper, who led the attempted break, and Clarence E. Morse, prison guard.

Roy Smith, Brown's accomplice, suffered the loss of an arm after it had been shattered by the gun fire of more than a score of guards and police.

A second guard, T. A. Kiger, was wounded after he shot and killed Brown.

The investigation will attempt to reveal how Brown smuggled two rifles, ammunition and several nitro glycerine bombs into the prison.

Two of the bombs were placed at the prison gates but failed to tear them down, probably thwarting a dash for liberty by more than a score of prisoners, who were working in the prison yard.

Colonel Mitchell Testifies and Denounces the Navy Defense

U. S. ARMY AND NAVY IMPOTENT FOR NAT'L DEFENSE

COL. WILLIAM MITCHELL SO TESTIFIES AT AVIATION INQUIRY BOARD

NATION IS EXPOSED AND AT THE MERCY OF AN ENEMY AIR FORCE

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 29.—In 10 days Great Britain could establish an air base with 1,000 planes at the mouth of the St. Lawrence river and attack the United States, Colonel William Mitchell, central figure in the air service furore, told the president's air craft board today.

With characteristic vigor and dramatic language, Mitchell told the board how the United States would be at the mercy of Britain should any difficulty arise.

"Of course, it's unthinkable, but it's a possibility," he said.

"I venture to say that within 10 days Britain could establish 1,000 bombing planes in Canada, which could harass our cities."

"We are unprepared to meet such an attack."

"The only power that could think of attacking us, of course, is Great Britain, but it could and it is enough."

"To meet this we need an army on land, submarines in the sea and planes in the air."

"Dirigibles capable of crossing the Atlantic and returning with a fleet of airplanes are possible," Mitchell said.

"We need a real air force to protect the Atlantic coast and our insular possessions. Without it, an army would be helpless."

"If we are required to defend ourselves against an Asiatic enemy led by Japan, their attack line would extend all the way up to Alaska."

"The Hawaiian Islands are not the keys to the Pacific. An enemy could come through Alaska by air."

"Canada could set up airways all the way to Alaska so we could co-operate with her in defending the Pacific."

"We should have an air base in Alaska. Conditions are feasible there. I am quite familiar with that territory. I know what some enemy could do if they gained control of the air in Alaska."

"And yet here we bury our heads in the sand like ostriches against such conditions."

Scathingly Attacks the Navy

Mitchell scathingly denounced the navy.

"Don't think the navy is a means of defense today," he said. "Except for their submarines, cruisers and smaller craft, the navy is useless as a means of defense."

"It sticks to worn out theories and policies."

"I have here," Mitchell told the board at the start, "nine statements, eight of which are constructive and one of which is destructive."

"I would rather not give that last one."

Mitchell is Questioned

Senator Bingham, republican, of Connecticut, then began questioning Mitchell.

"How old are you?"

"Forty-five."

"When did you learn to fly?"

"In 1916 at Newport News, Va."

"How much flying pay do you get?"

"Seventy-five per cent. Congress authorized this as a recognition of my services in the world war."

"What kind of planes have you flown?"

"All there are, I believe."

Mitchell Criticizes Army, Too

Mitchell criticized the army unsparingly after his attack on the navy.

"Here again we have the system," he said.

"The army has no air force whatever. That applies to equipment, personnel, planes and everything else."

"There is no such thing as efficiency in it."

"We have 12 pursuit planes, 22 bombers and the rest are D. H. 4's with Liberty motors that are neither flesh, fish nor fowl. They are worn out and useless."

"The army is nothing but a national constabulary. What it can do is support the Constitution and quell insurrections."

Says Abolish Coast Artillery

Mitchell suggested that the coast artillery, including the anti-aircraft corps, should be abolished.

"This branch continually asks for more money each year when its return is of little value," he said.

"In our navy we have one poor little collier, rated as an airplane carrier and it can't keep up with the fleet."

"If we were thrown into war tomorrow it would take us three years to meet it."

"I make this statement with my intimate knowledge of how things are done."

Non-Flying Officers Control Service

"All of our troubles have come about by virtue of the fact that the air service is controlled by non-flying officers. This is true in both branches of the service. They regard aviation as an auxiliary. They have no knowledge of what it really is."

"Testimony and statements from these non-flying officers is absolutely worthless. They do not know what they talk about."

COOK, HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN, NOW OUT ON BAIL

WAS ARRESTED LAST NIGHT ON A CHARGE OF PERJURY MADE BY THE SHERIFF

HAD ADMITTED TO STATE AND COUNTY OFFICIALS THAT HIS TESTIMONY WAS FALSE

Vinton, Ia., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Clifford B. Cook, husband of Benton county's slain temperance worker, Mrs. Myrtle Underwood Cook, was at liberty today on $10,000 bond following his arrest last night on a charge of perjury contained in an information signed by Sheriff Whitefield Ruhl.

The information charged Cook with perjury in connection with testimony given two weeks ago before the coroner's jury hearing evidence in the case of his murdered wife.

Cook is alleged to have said that on Sunday, September 6, the day before his wife was shot to death in her home, he was at Sioux City, Ia., that he attended church in the morning and spent the remainder of the day alone in his room.

Later he told state and county officials that this testimony was false. He had been with Mrs. Hester Selling pretty divorcee, part of the day, Mrs. Selling is held here on a grand jury subpoena for questioning in the Cook murder mystery.

The pair occupied quarters in the same rooming house at Sioux City, it was revealed. They met frequently and were "very friendly." Whether this friendly relationship had anything to do with the murder of Mrs. Cook is the problem authorities are endeavoring to answer. Decision to arrest Cook was reached after he had informed state and county agents working on the case that he would not submit to further questioning.

Solution of the murder mystery is improbable, it is believed. Had the state any evidence to warrant Cook's arrest on a charge of murder, he would not have been arrested for perjury, it was pointed out.

Mrs. Cook, widely known temperance worker, was shot to death in her home on the night of September 7. The original theory that bootleggers "with a grudge" committed the crime, apparently has been abandoned.

When arraigned on the perjury charge today Cook's bond was reduced from $10,000 to $2,000. On petition of his attorney the case then was continued until Friday.

The pilots landed their planes in perfect order and were entertained at lunch by city and chamber of commerce officials. They had made the flight from Chicago without incident.

CAPT. ANTON HEINAN TO TESTIFY BEFORE COURT OF INQUIRY

CHARGES MEASURE OF ECONOMY TO SAVE HELIUM BROUGHT DISASTER

MRS. ZACHARY P. LANSDOWNE, WIDOW OF COMMANDER, MAY TESTIFY

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 29.—(UP) Captain Anton Heinan, Zeppelin constructor, today or tomorrow is expected to be called before the naval court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster.

Heinan has charged that valve changes made as a measure of economy to save helium was responsible for the wreck of the dirigible.

Announcement of Rear Admiral H. P. Jones, president of the court, that Captain Heinan and Mrs. Zachary P. Lansdowne, widow of the commanding officer of the Shenandoah, would be welcomed if they wished to appear, followed a day of testimony given over to an effort to disprove Heinan's story. The court has not taken official notice of reports emanating from Washington that the Los Angeles is "rotting" in her hangar, but Captain George W. Steele, Jr., commanding officer of the Los Angeles, said that such reports were without foundation, adding that the structure of the dirigible was as sound today as when it crossed the Atlantic.

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of Commander Zachary Lansdowne, who was killed in wreck of the Shenandoah, today notified the navy court of inquiry that she desired to testify before it. It is presumed she will tell of the attitude of her husband toward the flight which ended when the Shenandoah crashed.

MORE COUNTY OFFICERS MAY BE DRAGGED INTO CASE

FEDERAL OFFICERS INTIMATE SUCH STEPS MAY FOLLOW COOK COUNTY JAIL AIRING

SHERIFF HOFFMAN'S NAME DRAWN INTO CHARGE OF "BARTERING PRIVILEGES"

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(UP)—More county officers may be dragged into Chicago's jail scandal, federal officials intimated today as contempt proceedings continued in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman's name was drawn directly into the charge of "bartering in special privileges" at yesterday's court session, when Henry Foerst, secretary to the deposed jail warden, Wesley Westbrook, declared that Hoffman knew of bribes being accepted.

The federal contempt hearing started when it was learned that Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, two of Chicago's millionaire beer runners, who had been sentenced to the county jail by Judge Wilkerson, had "bought" from their guards the privileges of "leaves" from the jail. Druggan and Lake testified that they paid many thousands of dollars to Westbrook and his aides but the sheriff's name was not involved preceding Foerst's testimony.

SUBMARINE S-51 GIVES UP ITS DEAD

BODY OF J. L. GIBSON, ENGINEMAN, IS FIRST FOUND IN SUNKEN SUB

WORD OF FINDING OF GIBSON'S BODY CAME IN MESSAGE FROM ADMIRAL CHRISTY

IT INDICATED THAT THE DIVERS HAD PENETRATED THE HULL IN SEARCH OF BODIES

By CARL D. GROAT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

A second body, that of William Teschemacher, first class seaman of Bangor, Pa., was taken from the hull soon afterward.

Teschemacher was a twin brother of Frederick Peter Teschemacher, first class seaman, who also perished as he is believed to have been at the conning wheel when the ship sank.

U. S. Submarine Base, New London, Conn., Sept. 29.—The sunken submarine S-51 today began to yield up its dead.

The body of J. L. Gibson was the first found. His body was taken from the battery room of the submarine which was rammed and sunk Friday night by the steamship City of Rome.

Gibson was an engineman, first class. His home was in Portland, Ore.

Word of finding Gibson's body came in a message from Admiral H. H. Christy, aboard the U. S. S. Camden.

It indicated to navy officers here that divers have penetrated the hull and are searching for bodies.

The message said: "The first body to be taken from the battery room was identified as that of John L. Gibson, Portland, Ore. He has a wife living in New London."

Divers Hampered by Heavy Seas

The divers had been halted by the ground swells and adverse tides. Christy had sent them down in the evening with instructions to go through the battery room hatch and to explore within. During the evening Harry Reinhardt and William Reid, civilian divers, were put overboard from the diver ship Chittenden.

Neither could explore the interior of the submarine. It was dark below and for some reason there was no submarine lighting device used apparently.

During the night a grim rumor went through the ranks of the enlisted personnel that the Cheewink had been ordered to take down to the rescue fleet two score of new blankets. The story ran that they were to be the shrouds for men from the S-51, but officers afterwards said the consignment was simply intended as extra supplies in which to wrap divers when they came from the water.

What will be done with the bodies when brought out of the hull is not decided, but they probably will be brought back to this old New England town where so many pioneers of the seas have been brought back to sleep along the Thames.

New London was "home" to many of the S-51 folk as much home as seafarers ever have.

If, as now seems quite probable, some are brought forth alive, they will probably be taken to the naval hospital at Newport, though it is barely possible that they will be taken in here.

Cranes Forced From Scene of Wreck

It was the second time in two days that the cranes had been forced from the scene of the wreck. Yesterday they had lumbered into the lee of Block Island when the sea swells proved too much for them.

The news from Admiral Christy that rough water was running came as a shock here. Weather ashore was ideal, no wind was blowing and an autumn sun gave promise of turning almost to summer heat.

It is now possible that the navy will be forced to revert to its reserve plan of "blowing up" the submarine, that is, pumping her full of air in the hope that the stern, balloon-like will up end. But Christy's message

SKULLS ARE CRACKED AS CAR AND TRAIN MEET IN COLLISION

Milwaukee, Sept. 29.—(UP)—W. R. Fortney, 40, Waynesborough, Pa., salesman, and Clarence O. Barrie, local mechanical engineer, are dead as the result of injuries received when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a St. Paul road train here last night.

Both suffered fractured skulls and internal injuries and died at Emergency hospital a short time after being taken there.

METHODISTS CONVENE AT FERGUS FALLS

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 29.—(UP)—The thirty first session of the northern Minnesota conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was to hold its opening service at Grace Methodist church here this evening. The conference is scheduled to adjourn October 4.

cast no light on this point, saying only that the diving operations are being resumed. The admiral's message was dated shortly before 8 a. m. and was received here a few minutes later.

Admiral Christy, whose motto had been "save life," sent divers down this morning after the derricks Century and Monarch, unable to weather the rough seas, had been sent into Newport, the second time they had been beaten from the wreck scene.

Life could not be saved on the plunge. Instead a corpse was found in the battery room. This compartment had been torn asunder by the sharp bow of the steamship City of Rome, when on Friday night she was plowing up the sound bound for Boston.

A stricken widow here in New London is the first to know the exact fate of a loved one aboard. Gibson made his home here in a neat little dwelling.

Gibson's body, after being lifted out of the shell, was quickly identified. All the identifications, tags and finger prints were sent previously to the Camden against the time when bodies should be brought to the surface.

At the base one pictured that the diver had gone into the battery room and probably stumbled across the body of Gibson. It was thrust out of the way of the diver's leaden shoes, a line was attached to it and it was brought aloft.

The diver during the day should find other bodies. His task, it is believed was primarily to close vents and hatches and to open certain valves but he will surely do what he can to bring more to the surface, to lift the load of anxiety and uncertainty from the hearts of kin ashore.

Officers assumed here that the diver's instructions from Admiral Christy had been to send up any corpses which could easily be moved. Others lodged away and not easy to shift would probably remain until such time as the submarine had been hoisted and opened.

Though broken by anxiety, Mrs. Gibson had steeled herself to expect her husband's death and she took the tragic message of Commander Scanlon and his companions well under the circumstances. It seemed to bring the relief that goes with certainty after days of uncertainty.

A message to the submarine base at 10:30 related that two divers had gone down and one was working inside the hull and the other outside.

BRING BODY ABOARD SHIP

Aboard U. S. S. Camden, Flagship of Admiral Christy, Sept. 29.—(By radio to United Press)—The first body to be taken from the sunken hull of the S-51, that of J. L. Gibson, was brought aboard the Camden at 7:30 A. M.

Divers went to work at 5 A. M., entering the submerged craft by the forward hatch beneath the mounted gun.

The body was in good condition. William Reid of Bayonne, N. J., was the diver who opened the hatch and first sent the body to the surface.

The Camden's flag was put at half mast.

HUGE WATER POWER PROJECT IS UNFOLDED

TO USE CHAIN OF LAKES BETWEEN MINNESOTA AND ONTARIO

INTERNATIONAL UNDERTAKING UNFOLDED BEFORE JOINT HIGH COMMISSION

International Falls, Minn., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Plans for a gigantic international water power project in the chain of lakes between Minnesota and Ontario was unfolded before a joint high commission of the Canadian and United States governments today.

By the plan proposed to the commission, seven dams would be constructed at various points in northern lakes, which drain into the Pigeon river and thence into the Great Lakes. Lake levels would be materially affected, it is said, by the project.

E. W. Backus, Minneapolis, representing power interests in the Twin Cities, made the proposals and argued for acceptance by the commission. He said the water project with its huge power plant at International Falls would be a boon to all industries of the northwest and would not harm recreational value of the Pigeon river country.

He asked commissioners for the two countries not only to approve the plan but to urge their governments to share expense of the project. Damages from the flooding of thousands of acres in the summer resort region would be paid by the two countries, according to the proposals. Backus admitted, however, that the project was worth development even if its costs were met by the development company.

HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDERING HIS GRANDMOTHER

Phillips, Wis., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Following his confession to authorities Elmer Door, 15, is held in the county jail here today on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Door, 78. The woman was found dead at her home five miles south of here. Her head had been badly beaten with a heavy iron crank. According to authorities the boy said he went to the home and was refused admittance by the grandmother, who was alone at the time. He broke the glass in the door with his fist, according to the story, walked in and then beat the aged lady to death with the crank.

The boy was arrested here under suspicion while unloading brick at a local lumber yard. At the inquest he freely admitted the crime, according to authorities. Mrs. Door had been living at the farm home with her son and grandson and she is said to have had some trouble with the youth, who had not been staying at the home previous to the tragedy.

DESPERATE JAIL BREAK THWARTED AT LINCOLN, NEB.

CONVICT AND PRISON GUARD SLAIN LATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

TWO RIFLES, AMMUNITION AND NITRO GLYCERINE BOMBS SMUGGLED INTO PRISON

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 29.—(UP)—An investigation was started at the state penitentiary today following the slaying of a convict and a prison guard late yesterday in one of the most desperate attempts ever made to flee the prison.

The dead were Fred Brown, notorious murderer and kidnaper, who led the attempted break, and Clarence E. Morse, prison guard.

Roy Smith, Brown's accomplice, suffered the loss of an arm after it had been shattered by the gun fire of more than a score of guards and police.

A second guard, T. A. Kiger, was wounded after he shot and killed Brown. The investigation will attempt to reveal how Brown smuggled two rifles, ammunition and several nitro glycerine bombs into the prison.

Two of the bombs were placed at the prison gates but failed to tear them down, probably thwarting a dash for liberty by more than a score of prisoners, who were working in the prison yard.

Colonel Mitchell Testifies and Denounces the Navy Defense

U. S. ARMY AND NAVY IMPOTENT FOR NAT'L DEFENSE

COL. WILLIAM MITCHELL SO TESTIFIES AT AVIATION INQUIRY BOARD

NATION IS EXPOSED AND AT THE MERCY OF AN ENEMY AIR FORCE

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY (United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, Sept. 29.—In 10 days Great Britain could establish an air base with 1,000 planes at the mouth of the St. Lawrence river and attack the United States, Colonel William Mitchell, central figure in the air service furor, told the president's air craft board today.

With characteristic vigor and dramatic language, Mitchell told the board how the United States would be at the mercy of Britain should any difficulty arise.

"Of course, it's unthinkable, but it's a possibility," he said.

"I venture to say that within 10 days Britain could establish 1,000 bombing planes in Canada, which could harass our cities."

"We are unprepared to meet such an attack."

"The only power that could think of attacking us, of course, is Great Britain, but it could and it is enough. To meet this we need an army on land, submarines in the sea and planes in the air."

"Dirigibles capable of crossing the Atlantic and returning with a fleet of airplanes are possible," Mitchell said.

"We need a real air force to protect the Atlantic coast and our insular possessions. Without it, an army would be helpless.

"If we are required to defend ourselves against an Asiatic enemy led by Japan, their attack line would extend all the way up to Alaska."

"The Hawaiian islands are not the keys to the Pacific. An enemy could come through Alaska by air."

"Canada could set up airways all the way to Alaska so we could cooperate with her in defending the Pacific."

"We should have an air base in Alaska. Conditions are feasible there. I am quite familiar with that territory. I know what some enemy could do if they gained control of the air in Alaska."

"And yet here we bury our heads in the sand like ostriches against such conditions."

Scathingly Attacks the Navy

Mitchell scathingly denounced the navy.

"Don't think the navy is a means of defense today," he said. "Except for their submarines, cruisers and smaller craft, the navy is useless as a means of defense."

"It sticks to worn out theories and policies."

"I have here," Mitchell told the board at the start, "nine statements, eight of which are constructive and one of which is destructive."

"I would rather not give that last one."

Mitchell is Questioned

Senator Bingham, republican, of Connecticut, then began questioning Mitchell.

"How old are you?"

"Forty-five."

"When did you learn to fly?"

"In 1916 at Newport News, Va."

"How much flying pay do you get?"

"Seventy-five per cent. Congress authorized this as a recognition of my services in the world war."

"What kind of planes have you flown?"

"All there are, I believe."

Mitchell Criticizes Army, Too

Mitchell criticized the army unsparingly after his attack on the navy.

"Here again we have the system," he said.

"The army has no air force whatever. That applies to equipment, personnel, planes and everything else."

"There is no such thing as efficiency in it."

"We have 12 pursuit planes, 22 bombers and the rest are D. H. 4's with Liberty motors that are neither flesh, fish nor fowl. They are worn out and useless."

"The army is nothing but a national constabulary. What it can do is support the Constitution and quell insurrections."

Says Abolish Coast Artillery

Mitchell suggested that the coast artillery, including the anti-aircraft corps, should be abolished.

"This branch continually asks for more money each year when its return is of little value," he said.

"In our navy we have one poor little collier, rated as an airplane carrier and it can't keep up with the fleet."

"If we were thrown into war tomorrow it would take us three years to meet it."

"I make this statement with my intimate knowledge of how things are done."

Non-Flying Officers Control Service

"All of our troubles have come about by virtue of the fact that the air service is controlled by non-flying officers. This is true in both branches of the service. They regard aviation as an auxiliary. They have no knowledge of what it really is."

FARM CONDITIONS IN COUNTRY AS A WHOLE IMPROVING

Washington, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Farm conditions in the country as a whole are better than at any time since 1920, formed Governor F. O. Lowden of Illinois told President Coolidge today.

After his White House call today Lowden refused to say whether he had recommended agricultural development.

COOK, HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN, NOW OUT ON BAIL

WAS ARRESTED LAST NIGHT ON A CHARGE OF PERJURY MADE BY THE SHERIFF

HAD ADMITTED TO STATE AND COUNTY OFFICIALS THAT HIS TESTIMONY WAS FALSE

Vinton, Ia., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Clifford B. Cook, husband of Benton county's slain temperance worker, Mrs. Myrtle Underwood Cook, was at liberty today on $10,000 bond following his arrest last night on a charge of perjury contained in an information signed by Sheriff Whitefield Ruhl.

The information charged Cook with perjury in connection with testimony given two weeks ago before the coroner's jury hearing evidence in the case of his murdered wife.

Cook is alleged to have said that on Sunday, September 6, the day before his wife was shot to death in her home, he was at Sioux City, Ia., that he attended church in the morning and spent the remainder of the day alone in his room.

Later he told state and county officials that this testimony was false. He had been with Mrs. Hester Selling pretty divorcee, part of the day. Mrs. Selling is held here on a grand jury subpoena for questioning in the Cook murder mystery.

The pair occupied quarters in the same rooming house at Sioux City, it was revealed. They met frequently and were "very friendly." Whether this friendly relationship had anything to do with the murder of Mrs. Cook is the problem authorities are endeavoring to answer. Decision to arrest Cook was reached after he had informed state and county agents working on the case that he would not submit to further questioning.

Solution of the murder mystery is improbable, it is believed. Had the state any evidence to warrant Cook's arrest on a charge of murder, he would not have been arrested for perjury, it was pointed out.

Mrs. Cook, widely known temperance worker, was shot to death in her home on the night of September 7. The original theory that bootleggers "with a grudge" committed the crime, apparently has been abandoned.

When arraigned on the perjury charge today Cook's bond was reduced from $10,000 to $2,000. On petition of his attorney the case then was continued until Friday.

AIRPLANES IN RELIABILITY TEST

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 29.—(UP)—The squadron of airplanes in the Edsel Ford reliability test landed at the Fisher aviation field here at 2 p. m. today.

The trip from Moline was made without mishap. The 16 pilots comprising the squadron are scheduled to take off at 3 p. m. for Omaha.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 29.—The 16 planes touring the west in the Edsel Ford reliability test hopped off here shortly after noon today for Des Moines, the next stop. From Des Moines they hope to reach Omaha, where they intend to spend the night.

The pilots landed their planes in perfect order and were entertained at lunch by city and chamber of commerce officials. They had made the flight from Chicago without incident.

CAPT. ANTON HEINAN TO TESTIFY BEFORE COURT OF INQUIRY

CHARGES MEASURE OF ECONOMY TO SAVE HELIUM BROUGHT DISASTER

MRS. ZACHARY P. LANSLOWNE, WIDOW OF COMMANDER, MAY TESTIFY

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 29.—(UP) Captain Anton Heinan, Zeppelin constructor, today or tomorrow is expected to be called before the naval court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster.

Heinan has charged that valve changes made as a measure of economy to save helium was responsible for the wreck of the dirigible.

Announcement of Rear Admiral H. P. Jones, president of the court, that Captain Heinan and Mrs. Zachary P. Lansdowne, widow of the commanding officer of the Shenandoah, would be welcomed if they wished to appear, followed a day of testimony given over to an effort to disprove Heinan's story. The court has not taken official notice of reports emanating from Washington that the Los Angeles is "rotting" in her hangar, but Captain George W. Steele, Jr., commanding officer of the Los Angeles, said that such reports were without foundation, adding that the structure of the dirigible was as sound today as when it crossed the Atlantic.

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of Commander Zachary Lansdowne, who was killed in wreck of the Shenandoah, today notified the navy court of inquiry that she desired to testify before it. It is presumed she will tell of the attitude of her husband toward the flight which ended when the Shenandoah crashed.

MORE COUNTY OFFICERS MAY BE DRAGGED INTO CASE

FEDERAL OFFICERS INTIMATE SUCH STEPS MAY FOLLOW COOK COUNTY JAIL AIRING

SHERIFF HOFFMAN'S NAME DRAWN INTO CHARGE OF "BARTERING PRIVILEGES"

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(UP)—More county officers may be dragged into Chicago's jail scandal, federal officials intimated today as contempt proceedings continued in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman's name was drawn directly into the charge of "bartering in special privileges" at yesterday's court session, when Henry Foerst, secretary to the deposed jail warden, Wesley Westbrook, declared that Hoffman knew of bribes being accepted.

The federal contempt hearing started when it was learned that Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, two of Chicago's millionaire beer runners, who had been sentenced to the county jail by Judge Wilkerson, had "bought" from the guards the privileges of "leaves" from the jail. Druggan and Lake testified that they paid many thousands of dollars to Westbrook and his aides but the sheriff's name was not involved in preceding Foerst's testimony.

BANDITS SLAY AND ESCAPE WITH $10,000 CASH

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Three bandits held up a motor truck in the business district here, shot and killed the bank chauffeur, injured one or the pay roll guards and escaped with between $10,000 and $11,000 in cash.

WINDS of CHANCE

CHAPTER V

"Looked kind of salty for a spell, didn't it?" The grizzled leader of the posse, he who had effected the capture of the thieves, was speaking to Pierce. Well, I'm due for a private apology. I hope you cherish no hard feelings. Eh?"

"Lucky that woman showed up. Who is she?"

Phillips shook his head. In his turn he inquired, "What are you going to do with the McCaskeys?"

The elder man's face hardened. "I don't know. This talk about hanging makes me weary. I'd hang 'em; I'd kick a barrel out from under either of 'em. I've done such things and I never had any bad dreams."

But it was plain that the sentiment favoring such extreme punishment had changed, for a suggestion was made to flog the thieves and send them out of the country. This met with instant response. A motion was put to administer forty lashes and it was carried out with a whoop.

Since the younger McCaskey appeared to be still somewhat dazed from the rough handling he had suffered, his brother was thrust forward. The latter was stripped to the waist, his wrists were firmly bound, then trussed up to one of the stout end-poles of the tent-frame which, skeleton-like, stood over the platform. This done, the committee fell back, and the wielder of the whip stepped forward.

The crowd had watched these grim proceedings intently; it became quite silent now. The hour was growing late, the day had been overcast, and a damp chill that searched the marrow was settling as the short afternoon drew to a close. The prisoner's naked body showed very white beneath his shock of coal-black hair; his flesh seemed tender and the on-lookers stared at it in fascination.

Joe McCaskey was a man of nerve; he held himself erect; there was defiance in the gaze which he leveled at the faces below him. But his brother Jim was not made of such stern stuff—he was the meeker, the more cowardly of the pair — and these methodical preparations, the certainty of his own forthcoming ordeal, bred in him a desperate panic. The sight of his brother's flesh bared to the life of the lacer brought home to him the horrifying significance of a flogging, and then, as if to emphasize that significance, the executioner gave his cat-o'-nail tails a practice swing. As the lashes hissed through the air the victim at the post stiffened rigidly, but his brother, outside the enclosure, writhed in his tracks and uttered a faint moan. Profiting by the inattention of his captors, Jim McCaskey, summoned his strength and with an effort born of desperation wrenched himself free. Hands grasped at him as he bolted, bodies barred his way, but he bore them down; before the meaning of the commotion had dawned upon the crowd at large he had fought his way out and was speeding down the street. But fleet-footed men were at his heels, a roar of rage burst from the mob, and in a body it took up the chase. Down the stumpy, muddy trail went the pursuit, and every command to halt spurred the fleeing man to swifter flight. Cabin doors opened; people came running from their tents; some tried to fling themselves in the way of the escaping criminal; packers toiling up the trail heard the approaching clamor, shook off their burdens and endeavored to seize the figure that came bounding ahead of it. But Jim dodged them all. Failing in their attempt to intercept him, these newcomers joined the chase, and the fugitive, once the first frenzy of excitement had died in him, heard their footsteps gaining on him. He was stark mad by now; black terror throttled him. Then some one fired a shot; that shot was followed by others; there came a scattered fusillade, and with a mighty leap Jim McCaskey fell. He collapsed in mid-air; he was dead when his pursuers reached him.

AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Special Week of Meetings Marked by Increasing Interest And Large Audiences

The progress of the special week of meetings that are being held in the First Presbyterian church is marked by increasing interest and large audiences.

On Monday evening Miss Alberts

Patterson told her audience of her impressions of China. The strange feeling of being alone among a people so different from Americans, the difficulty of traveling in the orient, the customs of the people there, the political situation and the progress of the Christian church proved of exceptional interest to all who heard Miss Patterson.

The pastor, Rev. Alexander Patterson, brought the story of the flood up to the present day. The ark saved Noah and his family from destruction, and Christ is the salvation of all who are in him, said the speaker. The fall was followed by acts of sin in the individual, then in the family, and then in the whole of civilization. "But God always offers a way of escape," concluded the pastor.

Tonight Rev. Patterson will speak on "A Bad World." Miss Patterson will tell about Siam and Burma, bringing to her hearers much of interest that she received in visiting these countries. The meeting starts at 7:30 o'clock and is opened by a good song service.

"I Never Dreamed There Was That Much"

That remark was made by a young lady who brought her bank in to us the other day to be opened. She had been dropping in the nickels and dimes that came to her from week to week, and she was absolutely astonished when we opened the little bank and counted her savings.

She started a savings account and will use the same system again.

Railroad Men
know the value of being careful. Often their lives, or those of others, depend on the discovery of some small defect—a broken rail, a defective brake, a loose bar on a freight car ladder.

Railroad men and others who invest should use great care to avoid financial accidents. Don't take the word of the stock salesman, perhaps a comparative stranger. Check up on his statements by consulting your banker before you buy.

AN INJUSTICE DONE FORMER PRISONERS

SOME time ago there was a mail robbery in Minnesota and the police of various cities of the state, furnished with descriptions of the men, honeycombed the country looking for the mail bandits. Down in the twin cities the police took in custody a suspect and gave him past history, which was a life of crime.

True, the man had served his time for the offenses and was now at liberty. The papers, of course, gave full publicity to the man's prison record. What seemed particularly suspicious was the fact that he had lived quietly in his present neighborhood, had done nothing to break any law, but the police, of course, believed he had thus "laid low" after the alleged crime.

The taking of the suspect was given headlines and a half column on front page space of the papers. A day later the man was discharged. The discharge got a few lines with a small heading on an inside page of the papers.

Now, we claim, this isn't a square deal for the man hauled before the authorities. The fact that he was behaving himself, that he was keeping quiet, all this did not seem to weigh in the scales and all the ugly prison record that he had expiated by honestly and conscientiously serving time, had to be trotted out again to the world and made public property.

It takes pure grit, rare determination for a man to make good after he has been released. We have had released prisoners from Stillwater step in THE DISPATCH office and ask us if we would write them up because they had been released. We never wrote up any man when he returns home. Like Judge Atwell of the federal court of New York, we figure that when he has done time he has squared the account, that it is up to him to turn over a new leaf and make a fresh start.

We would advise the police of various cities, in the interest of a square deal and humanity, when they take an old released prisoner, as a suspect, bury his name and give it only when you are dead sure a charge has been attached.

REPUBLICANS ARE WORRIED
OVER RISE OF LA FOLLETTE

Washington, Sept. 29.—National republican leaders are much concerned over the ascendancy of Robert M. LaFollette, Jr.

Already they are discussing possible arrangements to oust him from republican councils of the senate as was done with the western farm republicans who were officially affiliated with the LaFollette independent presidential campaign last year.

"Young Bob" is well liked personally by party leaders in congress, although the national committee has shown no friendliness toward him. The congressional leaders admit that they would rather have permitted him to go along in the ranks if he would play ball, a phrase used to denote a willingness to abide by fundamental party principles.

But they believe the manner in which the campaign was conducted, or as some of them say, misconduted, against LaFollette, that it apparently severs party attachments and offers a difficult situation.

"Charlie's Aunt" Held Over Today, "Charlie's Aunt," with Syd Chaplin in the title role, closes its run at the Lyceum theatre tonight.

This is the picturization of the great farce comedy by Brandon Thomas which as a play has been running for thirty-three years and has grossed three million dollars. It deals with the humorous and embarrassing situations which occur when one of the boys at Oxford impersonates another fellow's "Aunt from Brazil where the nuts come from."

Oil and water, East and West, gin and gasoline—never the twain shall mix. "The House of Youth," the Regal photoplay which comes on Wednesday to the Lyceum in conjunction with "Country Store" night, is not concerned with oil or water, or East or West, but gin and gasoline it is vitally concerned.

MANY OPENINGS FOR "DAKOTANS"

One good reason why employers prefer office help from Dakota Business College, Fargo, is this: These students having practiced actual banking and commercial deals at school (a copyrighted course) don't need "breaking in," which costs time and money.

Elsie Titus was sent to the National Securities Co., before completing her course. A. C. Bjerken was sent to the McGeehan Motor Co. on his graduation day.

CHAPTER V

"Looked kind of salty for a spell, didn't it?" The grizzled leader of the posse, he who had effected the capture of the thieves, was speaking to Pierce. Well, I'm due for a private apology. I hope you cherish no hard feelings. Eh?"

"Lucky that woman showed up. Who is she?"

Phillips shook his head. In his turn he inquired, "What are you going to do with the McCaskeys?"

The elder man's face hardened. "I don't know. This talk about hanging makes me weary. I'd hang 'em; I'd kick a barrel out from under either of 'em. I've done such things and I never had any bad dreams."

But it was plain that the sentiment favoring such extreme punishment had changed, for a suggestion was made to flog the thieves and send them out of the country. This met with instant response. A motion was put to administer forty lashes and it was carried out with a whoop.

Since the younger McCaskey appeared to be still somewhat dazed from the rough handling he had suffered, his brother was thrust forward. The latter was stripped to the waist, his wrists were firmly bound, then trussed up to one of the stout end-poles of the tent-frame which, skeleton-like, stood over the platform. This done, the committee fell back, and the wielder of the whip stepped forward.

The crowd had watched these grim proceedings intently; it became quite silent now. The hour was growing late, the day had been over-cast, and a damp chill that searched the marrow was settling as the short afternoon drew to a close. The prisoner's naked body showed very white beneath his shock of coal-black hair; his flesh seemed tender and the on-lookers stared at it in fascination.

Joe McCaskey was a man of nerve; he held himself erect; there was defiance in the gaze which he leveled at the faces below him. But his brother Jim was not made of such stern stuff—he was the meaner, the more cowardly of the pair—and these methodical preparations, the certainty of his own forthcoming ordeal, bred in him a desperate panic. The sight of his brother's flesh bared to the bite of the lase brought home to him the horrifying significance of a flogging, and then, as if to emphasize that significance, the executioner gave his cat-o'-nine-tails a practice swing. As the lashes hissed through the air the victim at the post stiffened rigidly, but his brother, outside the inclosure, writhed in his tracks and uttered a faint moan. Profiting by the inattention of his captors, Jim McCaskey summoned his strength and with an effort born of desperation wrenched himself free. Hands grasped at him as he bolted, bodies barred his way, but he bore them down; before the meaning of the commotion had dawned upon the crowd at large he had fought his way out and was speeding down the street. But fleet-footed men were at his heels, a roar of rage burst from the mob, and in a body it took up the chase. Down the stumpy, muddy trail went the pursuit, and every command to halt spurred the fleeing man to swifter flight. Cabin doors opened; people came running from their tents; some tried to fling themselves in the way of the escaping criminal; packers toiling up the trail heard the approaching clamor, shook off their burdens and endeavored to seize the figure that came bounding ahead of it. But Jim dodged them all. Failing in their attempt to intercept him, these newcomers joined the chase, and the fugitive, once the first frenzy of excitement had died in him, heard their footsteps gaining on him. He was stark mad by now; black terror throttled him. Then some one fired a shot; that shot was followed by others; there came a scattered fusillade, and with a mighty leap Jim McCaskey fell. He collapsed in mid-air; he was dead when his pursuers reached him.

AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Special Week of Meetings Marked by Increasing Interest And Large Audiences

The progress of the special week of meetings that are being held in the First Presbyterian church is marked by increasing interest and large audiences.

On Monday evening Miss Alberta

Patterson told her audience of her impressions of China. The strange feeling of being alone among a people so different from Americans, the difficulty of traveling in the orient, the customs of the people there, the political situation and the progress of the Christian church proved of exceptional interest to all who heard Miss Patterson.

The pastor, Rev. Alexander Patterson, brought the story of the flood up to the present day. The ark saved Noah and his family from destruction, and Christ is the salvation of all who are in him, said the speaker. The fall was followed by acts of sin in the individual, then in the family, and then in the whole of civilization. "But God always offers a way of escape" concluded the pastor.

Tonight Rev. Patterson will speak on "A Bad World." Miss Patterson will tell about Siam and Burma, bringing to her hearers much of interest that she received in visiting these countries. The meeting starts at 7:30 o'clock and is opened by a good song service.

GINSBERG TO PLEAD HIS CASE

WILL APPEAR IN ST. PAUL POLICE COURT TO-MORROW

St. Paul, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Abe S. Ginsberg, Minneapolis attorney, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with the trial of Bea and Abe Gleeman, now serving life terms for murder, will plead his case in police court tomorrow.

Ginsberg one of the counsel for the defense when the Gleemans were tried for the murder of Bert Stevens in a bootleg war, was arrested on charges made by the convicts in affidavits filed to support their plea for retrial.

The affidavits charge that Ginsberg was paid by the million dollar liquor syndicate for which they worked to convict them of the murder and so protect directors of the bootleg ring. An outside gunman, they declared, committed the murder.

Others named with Ginsberg in the alleged plot to send the Gleemans to prison have vanished from the Twin Cities. Although County Attorney Harry Peterson has ordered the arrest of seven others, none has been jailed. Ginsberg is at liberty on $15,000 bond.

A special investigator from the Washington headquarters of the prohibition enforcement department has been detailed to assist local prohibition officers in their probe of charges made by the Gleemans that a million dollar syndicate "railroaded" them to jail, it was learned today.

AN INJUSTICE DONE FORMER PRISONERS

SOME time ago there was a mail robbery in Minnesota and the police of various cities of the state, furnished with descriptions of the men, honeycombed the country looking for the mail bandits. Down in the twin cities the police took in custody a suspect and gave his past history, which was a life of crime.

True, the man had served his time for the offenses and was now at liberty. The papers, of course, gave full publicity to the man's prison record. What seemed particularly suspicious was the fact that he had lived quietly in his present neighborhood, had done nothing to break any law, but the police, of course, believed he had thus "laid low" after the alleged crime.

The taking of the suspect was given headlines and a half column on front page space of the papers. A day later the man was discharged. The discharge got a few lines with a small heading on an inside page of the papers.

Now, we claim, this isn't a square deal for the man hauled before the authorities. The fact that he was behaving himself, that he was keeping quiet, all this did not seem to weigh in the scales and all the ugly prison record that he had expiated by honestly and conscientiously serving time, had to be trotted out again to the world and made public property.

It takes pure grit, rare determination for a man to make good after he has been released. We have had released prisoners from Stillwater step in THE DISPATCH office and ask us if we would write them up because they had been released. We never wrote up any man when he returns home. Like Judge Atwell of the federal court of New York, we figure that when he has done time he has squared the account, that it is up to him to turn over a new leaf and make a fresh start.

We would advise the police of various cities, in the interest of a square deal and humanity, when they take an old released prisoner, as a suspect, bury his name and give it only when you are dead sure a charge has been attached.

REPUBLICANS ARE WORRIED OVER RISE OF LA FOLLETTE

Washington, Sept. 29.—National republican leaders are much concerned over the ascendancy of Robert M. LaFollette, Jr.

Already they are discussing possible arrangements to oust him from republican councils of the senate as was done with the western farm republicans who were officially affiliated with the LaFollette independent presidential campaign last year.

"Young Bob" is well liked personally by party leaders in congress, although the national committee has shown no friendliness toward him. The congressional leaders admit that they would rather have permitted him to go along in the ranks if he would play ball, a phrase used to denote a willingness to abide by fundamental party principles.

But they believe the manner in which the campaign was conducted, or as some of them say, misconducted, against LaFollette, that it apparently severs party attachments and offers a difficult situation.

"Charlie's Aunt" Held Over Today.

"Charlie's Aunt," with Syd Chaplin in the title role, closes its run at the Lyceum theatre tonight.

This is the picturization of the great farce comedy by Brandon Thomas which as a play has been running for thirty-three years and has grossed three million dollars. It deals with the humorous and embarrassing situations which occur when one of the boys at Oxford impersonates another fellow's "Aunt from Brazil where the nuts come from."

Oil and water, East and West, gin and gasoline—never the twain shall mix. "The House of Youth," the Regal photoplay which comes on Wednesday to the Lyceum in conjunction with "Country Store" night, is not concerned with oil or water, or East or West, but gin and gasoline it is vitally concerned.

PIRATES ARE FAVORITES IN THE BETTING

BASEBALL DOES NOT FOLLOW FORM AND AVERAGES

"BETTER TEAM DOES NOT ALWAYS WIN A SHORT SERIES" SAYS MCGRAW

"THE BREAKS ARE OF THE MOST VITAL IMPORTANCE AND CAN'T BE FIGURED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 29.—Pittsburgh still remains the favorite in the betting here to win the world's series from Washington, which starts next week in the National league city. Several firms had $6,000 to bet against $5,000 that the Pirates would win the series and the same amount at the same price that the Senators will lose the first game of the series.

Odds on players have been so badly stung in the past three years on the favorites that they have learned the lesson that baseball does not follow form and averages when two evenly matched teams go into a short series.

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, who would not be swayed by league loyalty to pick the Pirates if he thought the Senators were going to win, voices the sentiment of many wise baseball men. "The better team does not always win a short series," he said. "The breaks are of the most vital importance and they can't be figured. The Pirates and the Senators look to me like even money."

With the exception of Jack Bentley and Bill Terry all of the Giant regulars think the Pittsburgh punch and greater speed will down the Senators.

Reports that Buckey Harris, Walter Johnson and Roger Peckinpaugh are not in good shape may be keeping some Washington money off the market. The bets offered in New York, however, are no real indication of outside sentiment. The feeling in New York is absolutely neutral and is influenced too much by the desire to take in a bet.

ALONG THE SIDE LINES

South Bend, Ind.—Coach Rockne's first two eleven were given a rest in the first practice game of the week as reward for their smashing victory over Baylor. All of the Notre Dame's players came through the opening game without injuries.

Evanston, Ill.—With three regular backfield men still nursing injuries, Coach Thistlethwaite drove the balance of his Northwestern squad through a hard scrimmage, fearing that he may have to use a second string backfield against South Dakota Saturday.

Bloomington, Ind.—Indiana's varsity needs fight, Coach Ingram told his charges. "We can beat Normal on Saturday if you fight," he said. "In the last scrimmage the freshmen tore wide holes in the varsity lines."

Urbana, Ill.—Coach Zuppke started work today on his University of Illinois line believing it is now too slow. It must work fast, he is convinced by experience to open holes for Red Grange, who is one of the fastest starting backs in the game.

Iowa City, Ia.—Fry, at fullback, is the most promising back of the Hawkeye team. In a hard scrimmage yesterday, Fry made repeated long gains through every combination of linemen that could be found.

Columbus, O.—Marck, Karow, Hunt and Bell will probably form the backfield Coach Jack Wilce will show against Ohio Wesleyan next Saturday. Nichols, a first string tackle, is out of the game with an injured shoulder.

La Fayette, Ind.—Purdue's coach, Jimmy Phelan, today joined the chorus of conference coaches who are moaning. "I've got a good backfield but my line is weak." Freshmen plowed through the varsity in yesterday's scrimmage.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—A new star at end has developed on Coach Fielding Yost's Wolverine squad. Oosterbaan will probably replace one of last year's wingmen, Grube or Flora. Friedman, Fuller, Molenda and Babcock have formed Yost's backfield.

Minneapolis, Minn.—New signals dealt out yesterday were rehearsed today by Coach "Doc" Spears. Gophers scrimmage is on today's bill in preparation for Saturday's contest with North Dakota.

Chicago—Stagg's Maroons will open a stone crushing line crumbling attack against Kentucky on Saturday, with little attention being given to the aerial game, it was indicated here, atter the Maroons completed a solid week's practice at line smashing. Stagg may withhold several of his regulars from the lineup in the Kentucky game.

Cambridge, Mass.—Leo Daley, star guard of the Harvard varsity last year, has recovered from an injury and made up his class work and has been returned to his regular position on the line.

Madison, Wis.—Larson, veteran backfield man on the Badger squad, will play in the line, Coach George Little indicated today. Larson had held a halfback berth on last year's team and was playing that position this year, until he was summoned to plug up the forward wall yesterday.

Ames, Ia.—Facing its big test of the season Saturday when the Ames squad will meet Wisconsin at Madison, Coach Sam Willaman launched upon a program of intensive scrimmage and new plays.

FIGHTS AND FIGHTERS

Madden Says Tunney Hits Hard
New York—"Gene Tunney hits shorter and harder than Harry Wills and he will knock him out if they ever meet," Bartley Madden, who was knocked out by Tunney last week, said on his return from the west. Madden denied the story that he had received $25,000 to lay down. "I was guaranteed $5,000 for my purse and that's all I got," he said.

Cool Weather Doesn't Stop Fight

Milwaukee—Despite predictions of cooler weather with the skies overcast, the 10-round bout between John Mendelsohn and Bobby Barrett, scheduled for tonight, will take place at the State Fair park, according to an announcement by promoters. Billy Borthfield meets Alex Hart in the 10-round semi-windup.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Tommy Farley, Atlantic City, won from Pop O'Brien, Scranton, Pa., on a foul in the fifth round. O'Brien was on the floor for a count of nine in the first round.

DEMPSEY, WILLS, MAY SIGN THEIR FIGHT ARTICLES

TWO ARE ALREADY BOUND BY A PRELIMINARY AGREEMENT

ARE TO BATTLE SOMEWHERE, SOMETIME, PROVIDING FINANCES ARE TEMPTING

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(UP)—If Floyd Fitzsimmons' personally conducted expedition has led to the pot of gold at the end of the South Bend, Ind., rainbow, Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills will sign today for a championship fight.

The two already are bound by a preliminary agreement, to battle somewhere, sometime, if, and provided, the financial arrangement is tempting, but the final, iron bound promise to meet on a specified date at a specified place for a specified amount is yet in the air.

Nothing has come out of South Bend to contradict the assurance of B. H. "Rob Roy" Benton, Dempsey's secretary, who has been telling everybody for the last two weeks that the fight is a sure thing and won't fall through. It seems accepted that the place is to be Michigan City, Ind., and the date July 4, 1926.

The placidity with which Wills and Dempsey dropped everything and came to Chicago for the showdown was more or less a surprise. When the fighters threw no cold water on the talk the surprises were trebled and the result was a suspicion began to circulate that the two might arrive at terms.

Benton has announced the signatures would be written today either in South Bend of Benton Harbor, Mich. The Michigan alternative is in case the Indiana laws against prize fighting might affect the legality of the contracts.

It seems the boys have met the five South Bend business men who are the financial backers of the fight and have been convinced that $1,000,000 is not too much for the backers to raise among them for underwriting the fight.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Doyle, a rookie Detroit pitcher, hit two homers but was defeated by Babe Ruth's homer that gave the Yankees a 7 to 6 victory in the second game. Ruth also hit one in the first game which the Tigers took at 6 to 2. The Babe's circuit sweepers were numbers 23 and 24 on his year's list.

The two base wild throws by Jimmy Johnston helped the Giants beat the Robins, 9 to 7.

Bunched hits off Genewich in the eighth inning gave the Cardinals four runs and a 4 to 1 victory over the Braves.

32 IN MATCH PLAY AT TOURNEY

SOME HARD FOUGHT CONTESTS IN MEDAL PLAY OF WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNAMENT

St. Louis Country Club, Clayton, Mo., Sept. 29.—(UP)—With the field trimmed down to 32 of the best match play in the 29th annual women's golf tournament got under way here this morning.

In the medal play it was indicated some of the hardest fought matches played here in years are in store for the remainder of the week.

Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., and three times champion, shattered the course record with a sparkling 77 for the 18 holes in the qualifying round. She was closely pursued by Miss Glenna Collett, another former titleholder, who turned in a 78. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd with an 89 and other famous women golfers here for the tournament.

GINSBERG TO PLEAD HIS CASE

WILL APPEAR IN ST. PAUL POLICE COURT TOMORROW

St. Paul, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Abe S. Ginsberg, Minneapolis attorney, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with the trial of Ben and Abe Gleeman, now serving life terms for murder, will plead his case in police court tomorrow.

Ginsberg one of the counsel for the defense when the Gleemans were tried for the murder of Bert Stevens in a bootleg war, was arrested on charges made by the convicts in affidavits filed to support their plea for retrial.

The affidavits charge that Ginsberg was paid by the million dollar liquor syndicate for which they worked to convict them of the murder and so protect directors of the bootleg ring. An outside gunman, they declared, committed the murder.

Others named with Ginsberg in the alleged plot to send the Gleemans to prison have vanished from the Twin Cities. Although County Attorney Harry Peterson has ordered the arrest of seven others, none has been jailed. Ginsberg is at liberty on $15,000 bond.

A special investigator from the Washington headquarters of the prohibition enforcement department has been detailed to assist local prohibition officers in their probe of charges made by the Gleemans that a million dollar syndicate "railroaded" them to jail, it was learned today.

CARE OF GLADIOLI IN THE WINTER

Proper Time to Take Up These Bulbs
as Well as Dahlia
Bulbs in Fall

SUGGESTIONS ARE OFFERED

Crow Wing County Garden Flower
Society Says Harvesting and
Packing is Important

A number of Brainerd people are inquiring about the care of gladioli and dahlia bulbs during the winter, and the proper time to take up these bulbs this fall. For their information the Crow Wing County Garden Flower society is offering the following suggestions which will be of much value in assuring growth next season:

Care of Gladioli Bulbs

Before the ground freezes in the fall dig up the bulbs, using a spading fork if possible. Take up the bulbs carefully if you desire to save the bulbets, and cut off the stalk about one-half inch from the bulb. Allow to dry for a week or more before removing the old corm from the new bulb and the bulbets.

The old corm is worthless and should be thrown away. Plant the bulbets the following spring in shallow trenches and the second year they should flower. After removing the old corm and bulbets allow the bulbs to be exposed to the sun or other heat until thoroughly dried and cured, then pack in bags or shallow boxes and place for the winter in a cool dry place in the cellar where the temperature will not go below freezing point.

Care of Dahlia Bulbs

The harvesting and packing for winter is very important, upon which depends the success of next year's blooms. Dahlias should be harvested shortly after their foliage has been killed by frost, for the strength of the stalk recedes into the bulbs at that time. By digging two or three days after the plant is killed by frost, the clumps or bulbs are in a perfectly dormant condition, have no sprouts, and keep perfectly all winter, sending out sprouts in the spring, which is the proper time.

Dahlias may be dug with a fork or spade, but in this harvesting great care must be used. The bulbs must not be pulled up. The bulbs are usually found in clusters, each bulb having a neck which is the small portion between the bulb and the stalk. In digging up the clumps care must be taken not to break the necks of the bulbs. If they are cracked, girdled or broken the necks will dry up or decay.

After removing the clumps of bulbs shake gently to remove the soil that will naturally fall off. Cut off tops within two or three inches of the tops of the clumps, allowing them to be exposed to the sun and air for only an hour or two. Do not allow them to stay out two or three days to dry up, then wonder why they are withered and fail to sprout.

Pack the bulbs in a cool, frost-proof place where extremes of temperature may be avoided, a place having an average temperature of about 45 degrees. Do not cover or pack in any material or with any substance. Simply pack clumps one on top of the other, placing each clump upside down. Dahlias in an old-fashioned cellar will keep first-class without any covering; in a cellar having a cement floor or that is heated, the boxes of bulbs should be lined with heavy paper and covered with paper or burlap to exclude the air and preserve a more even temperature. Do not divide the clumps until spring.

YOM KIPPUR OBSERVED

Group of Brainerd Worshippers Return From Duluth and
Twin Cities

A number of Brainerd people returned today from Duluth and the Twin Cities, where they observed Yom Kippur, the Hebrew Day of Atonement, which started at sundown on Saturday evening, September 26th, and closed on Monday evening "when the stars come out."

Among those going from this city were A. Ginsberg, who went to St. Paul, S. Newman and Jacob Borken to Duluth, Dr. A. K. Cohen, Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt, C. W. Milkes and A. Zimmerman to Minneapolis.

The Day of Atonement is observed by orthodox Jews by special services in their synagogues lasting all day, by prayers, fasting, and the making of donations either to needy families or to Jewish denominational institutions. It is a holy season in which the people make atonement for their sins of the past year.

Yom Kippur is also the beginning of the Jewish new year, which fell on the 19th of September. The first ten days of this new year are the days of atonement from the sins of the past year, and on the final day of the ten, which was on Monday, September 28th, the Hebrews are given atonement.

This new year, instead of being a season of feasting and merrymaking as is the beginning of the calendar year, is a period of prayer and fasting and repentance.

PIRATES ARE FAVORITES IN THE BETTING

BASEBALL DOES NOT FOLLOW FORM AND AVERAGES

"BETTER TEAM DOES NOT ALWAYS WIN A SHORT SERIES" SAYS MCGRAW

"THE BREAKS ARE OF THE MOST VITAL IMPORTANCE AND CAN'T BE FIGURED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 29.—Pittsburgh still remains the favorite in the betting here to win the world's series from Washington, which starts next week in the National league city.

Several firms had $6,000 to bet against $5,000 that the Pirates would win the series and the same amount at the same price that the Senators will lose the first game of the series.

Odds on players have been so badly stung in the past three years on the favorites that they have learned the lesson that baseball does not follow form and averages when two evenly matched teams go into a short series.

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, who would not be swayed by league loyalty to pick the Pirates if he thought the Senators were going to win, voices the sentiment of many wise baseball men. "The better team does not always win a short series," he said. "The breaks are of the most vital importance and they can't be figured. The Pirates and the Senators look to me like even money."

With the exception of Jack Bentley and Bill Terry all of the Giant regulars think the Pittsburgh punch and greater speed will down the Senators.

Reports that Bucky Harris, Walter Johnson and Roger Peckinpaugh are not in good shape may be keeping some Washington money off the market. The bets offered in New York, however, are no real indication of outside sentiment. The feeling in New York is absolutely neutral and is influenced too much by the desire to take in a bet.

ALONG THE SIDE LINES

South Bend, Ind.—Coach Rockne's first two eleven were given a rest in the first practice game of the week as reward for their smashing victory over Baylor. All of the Notre Dame's players came through the opening game without injuries.

Evanston, Ill.—With three regular backfield men still nursing injuries, Coach Thistlethwaite drove the balance of his Northwestern squad through a hard scrimmage, fearing that he may have to use a second string backfield against South Dakota Saturday.

Bloomington, Ind.—Indiana's varsity needs fight, Coach Ingram told his charges. "We can beat Normal on Saturday if you fight, you haven't showed it yet," he said. In the last scrimmage the freshmen tore wide holes in the varsity lines.

Urbana, Ill.—Coach Zuppke started work today on his University of Illinois line believing it is now too slow. It must work fast, he is convinced by experience to open holes for Red Grange, who is one of the fastest starting backs in the game.

Iowa City, Ia.—Fry, at fullback, is the most promising back of the Hawkeye team. In a hard scrimmage yesterday, Fry made repeated long gains through every combination of linemen that could be found.

Columbus, O.—Marck, Karow, Hunt and Bell will probably form the backfield Coach Jack Wilce will show against Ohio Wesleyan next Saturday. Nichols, a first string tackle, is out of the game with an injured shoulder.

La Fayette, Ind.—Purdue's coach, Jimmy Phelan, today joined the chorus of conference coaches who are moaning "I've got a good backfield but my line is weak." Freshmen plowed through the varsity in yesterday's scrimmage.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—A new star at end has developed on Coach Fielding Yost's Wolverine squad. Oosterbaan will probably replace one of last year's wingmen, Grube or Flora. Friedman, Fuller, Molenda and Babcock have formed Yost's backfield.

Minneapolis, Minn.—New signals dealt out yesterday were rehearsed today by Coach "Doc" Spears. Gophers scrimmage is on today's bill in preparation for Saturday's contest with North Dakota.

Chicago—Stagg's Maroons will open a stone crushing line crumpling attack against Kentucky on Saturday, with little attention being given to the aerial game, it was indicated here, af-

Cambridge, Mass.—Leo Daley, star guard of the Harvard varsity last year, has recovered from an injury and made up his class work and has been returned to his regular position on the line.

Madison, Wis.—Larson, veteran backfield man on the Badger squad, will play in the line, Coach George Little indicated today. Larson had held a halfback berth on last year's team and was playing that position this year, until he was summoned to plug up the forward wall yesterday.

Ames, Ia.—Facing its big test of the season Saturday when the Ames season will meet Wisconsin at Madison, Coach Sam Willaman launched upon a program of intensive scrimmage and new plays.

FIGHTS AND FIGHTERS

Madden Says Tunney Hits Hard

New York—"Gene Tunney hits shorter and harder than Harry Wills and he will knock him out if they ever meet," Bartley Madden, who was knocked out by Tunney last week, said on his return from the west. Madden denied the story that he had received $25,000 to lay down. "I was guaranteed $5,000 for my purse and that's all I got," he said.

Cool Weather Doesn't Stop Fight

Milwaukee—Despite predictions of cooler weather with the skies overcast, the 10-round bout between Johnny Mendelsohn and Bobby Barrett, scheduled for tonight, will take place at the State Fair park, according to an announcement by promoters. Billy Borfield meets Alex Hart in the 10-round semi-windup.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Tommy Farley, Atlantic City, won from Pop O'Brien, Scranton, Pa., on a foul in the fifth round. O'Brien was on the floor for a count of nine in the first round.

DEMPSEY, WILLS, MAY SIGN THEIR FIGHT ARTICLES

TWO ARE ALREADY BOUND BY A PRELIMINARY AGREEMENT

ARE TO BATTLE SOMEWHERE, SOMETIME, PROVIDING FINANCES ARE TEMPTING

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(UP)—If Floyd Fitzsimmons' personally conducted expedition has led to the pot of gold at the end of the South Bend, Ind., rainbow, Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills will sign today for a championship fight.

The two already are bound by a preliminary agreement, to battle somewhere, sometime, if, and provided, the financial arrangement is tempting, but the final, iron bound promise to meet on a specified date at a specified place for a specified amount is yet in the air.

Nothing has come out of South Bend to contradict the assurance of B. H. "Rob Roy" Benton, Dempsey's secretary, who has been telling everybody for the last two weeks that the fight is a sure thing and won't fall through. It seems accepted that the place is to be Michigan City, Ind., and the date July 4, 1926.

The placidity with which Wills and Dempsey dropped everything and came to Chicago for the showdown was more or less a surprise. When the fighters threw no cold water on the talk the surprises were trebled and the result was a suspicion began to circulate that the two might arrive at terms.

Benton has announced the signatures would be written today either in South Bend of Benton Harbor, Mich. The Michigan alternative is in case the Indiana laws against prize-fighting might affect the legality of the contracts.

It seems the boys have met the five South Bend business men who are the financial backers of the fight and have been convinced that $1,000,000 is not too much for the backers to raise among them for underwriting the fight.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Doyle, a rookie Detroit pitcher, hit two homers but was defeated by Babe Ruth's homer, that gave the Yankees a 7 to 6 victory in the second game. Ruth also hit one in the first game which the Tigers took at 6 to 2. The Babe's circuit sweepers were numbers 23 and 24 on his year's list.

The two base wild throws by Jimmy Johnston helped the Giants beat the Robins, 9 to 7.

Bunched hits off Genewich in the eighth inning gave the Cardinals four runs and a 4 to 1 victory over the Braves.

32 IN MATCH PLAY AT TOURNEY

SOME HARD FOUGHT CONTESTS IN MEDAL PLAY OF WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNAMENT

St. Louis Country Club, Clayton, Mo., Sept. 29.—(UP)—With the field trimmed down to 32 of the best match play in the 29th annual women's golf tournament got under way here this morning.

In the medal play it was indicated some of the hardest fought matches played here in years are in store for the remainder of the week.

Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., and three times champion, shattered the course record with a sparkling 77 for the 18 holes in the qualifying round. She was closely pursued by Miss Glenna Collett, another former titleholder, who turned in a 78. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd with an 80 and other famous women golfers here for the tournament.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION OF BUYING POWER

New York, Sept. 29.—Seldom in Wall street's recent history have greater demonstrations of buying power been witnessed than those which took place today.

Prices pushed ahead with vigor which swept the bear forces off their feet and established new highs on the current movement in a broad group of representative industrials.

Paying no regard to the current high rate prevailing for call money, the advance proceeded steadily, afforded in the comparative strength throughout the session on a 2,000,000 displayed by General Motors, American share volume. Yes and Know!

Thousands of men said "Yes" last year to bogus oil stocks without first knowing whether all was well or not—

"Yesing without Knowing" is precarious and dangerous business—whether it's clothing or certificates you are buying.

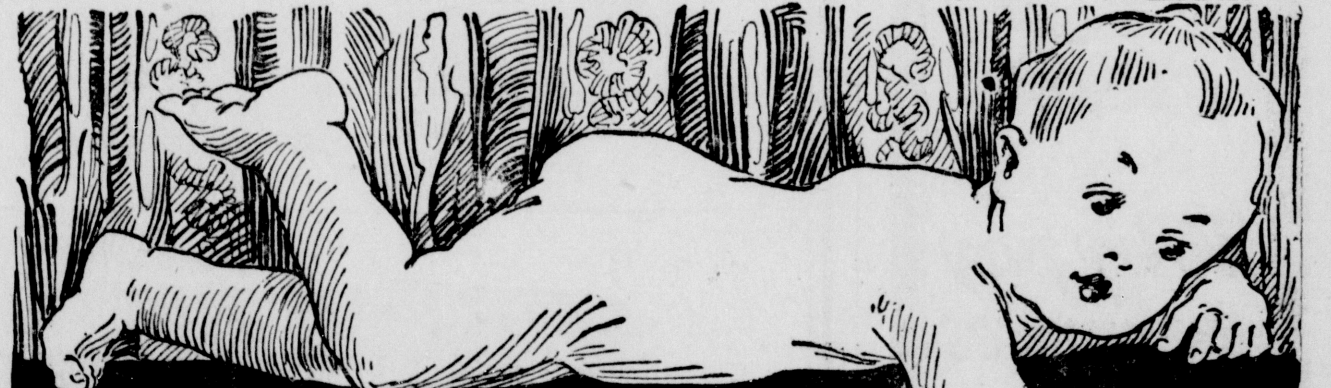

All clothing stories at the beginning of a new season are as fascinating as a sailor's yarn—and as full of promise as a prospective son-in-law—but there is one store in Brainerd that asks you to "Know" before you "Yes."

ELECTION OF SENIOR OFFICERS

Thursday at three-thirty the Senior class held a meeting at which the officers for the year were elected. A nominating committee had previously listed the candidates who were thought suitable to hold the different positions.

There are a large number of events taking place during the last year of High School which call for able leadership. Experience is always a valuable thing, and, as Stewart Gile made an admirable Junior president, there is every reason to expect that this year he would be well suited for Senior president. The class seemed to be of the same opinion, for Stewart was chosen as pilot for the class of '26.

Then, of course, he must have an able assistant. Kenneth Olthoff, vice president, is just the one for that position.

Esther Bentley, elected class secretary, will conscientiously do her part during the coming year as she is known to do other things unassumingly but correctly.

Probably some people imagine that being class treasurer is an easy position. If Raymond Nicholson had that idea, he will discover before the year is over that he had been misinformed. But we all know that Raymond will prove capable in any situation which may develop.

Then there is the sergeant at arms whose purpose is to see that order is prevalent at all meetings. This is also more difficult than it seems, because you see there may be a great deal of commotion occurring in some of the spirited class meetings sure to take place; but the class knew what it was about in this case as well as the others as Richard Marshall was elected.

So with Stewart Gile as president, Kenneth Olthoff as vice-president, Esther Bentley as secretary, Raymond Nicholson as treasurer, and Richard Marshall as sergeant at arms, the Senior class has a good start towards accomplishing big things.

JUNIOR ELECTION HELD ON MONDAY

On Monday night, September 21, the election of Junior officers was held in Miss Mosier's room. The great majority of them turned out in full force, full of energy and ready to vote for their candidates. Margaret O'Brien, our last year's president, took charge of the crowd in her capable way and soon brought the room to order. After each office was filled, there was much huzzing and stamping of feet to show that it met with the approval of nearly all.

The officers elected are as follows: President—Margaret O'Brien. Vice-president—Calvin Orth. Secretary—Dorothy Deering. Treasurer—Raymond Anderson. Sergeant-at-arms—Russell Putz. Class Adviser—Miss Mosier. Margaret proved such a good president last year that we are certainly glad she is at the helm again. We know that we are in for a good time especially with the able help of our cool-headed vice-president, Cal Orth, and our peppy and energetic adviser, Miss Mosier.

Dee Deering, our secretary, is already proving her worth by going out after the dues in her merry way and meeting with much success. But then, I ask you, who could refuse her?

Everybody knows Ray Anderson, who is our invaluable treasurer. Even the president of the bank would trust him with the keys of the safe. We confidently expect good results from him.

Russell Putz, who is sergeant at arms, is one of our football heroes of last year and consequently is one of our popular fellows. He certainly ought to be as good in his bouncing act as the rest of the officers in their.

Immediately after the election, Stewart Gile, the Senior president, appeared on the scene with an invitation to a picnic at Gilbert Lake on Friday, Oct. 2nd; the Juniors joyfully accepted.

Eats! Did you get that? Hot dogs and dog houses. Come on, Juniors, run 'em ragged.

Send Out Thy Light

The students who have inherited the right to sit in the room of high and mighty Seniors must begin to realize the responsibility that rests upon their broad shoulders. At last they can look scornfully down upon the under classmen and say, "Don't you envy us? Do you think you will ever attain the heights we have achieved? Ah you poor miserable beings who are so far beneath us—you little insignificant freshmen—do you fully comprehend our importance? We are likened unto a stellar light sending our rays of brilliance throughout the day but your pale little greenish gleam is destined to flicker dimly until you, too, some day may burst into flame. But until you do, you must live in oblivion until three more classes of Seniors have passed into the 'great beyond'."

EDITORIAL

BRAINONIAN

After a month of school the students of the High School are entering into the daily activities of the school; the Freshmen have accustomed themselves to the change of routine and to the rules of the school; football practice has started and the first game of the season has been played, and now the first issue of the Brainonian has been edited.

For the success of all of these things, each of the four hundred and seventy pupils now enrolled must do his share for the furtherment of these necessary activities, and for their own good each one must obey the rules of the school to get what he can out of this school year.

While obedience to the regulations and appliances to studies are the essential qualities that go to make a good student, yet you can not be a good student of the High School if you do not enter whole heartedly into the activities of the school. If you have ability in athletics, you should, if you have any school spirit, go out for football. If you have ability in scholarship, do not be content with a passing grade or even a "Fair or Good" make if an A mark can be obtained, and if you have any ability in journalism, even if you cannot spare the time to be on the regular staff you can make contributions to this paper; but even if you are out for football or interested in other things, do not lose sight of your regular school work, for after all, the prime requisite of the year is to get the most out of your studies.

A HAPPENING IN THE GENERAL SCIENCE CLASS

When Miss Graham's door opened from her last period General Science class, at the end of each day, among the students, emerged one boy with an unusually red face, who dashed through the crowded hall to avoid the embarrassment of being viewed by upper-classmen, while in such a colorful state. All those in the hall watched the "red streak" on his hasty flight for shelter. This happened once, twice, three times and over again, until finally "Sherlock" reported, a bit late, but bent upon solving the mystery by hook or by crook. For days "Sherlock" watched him come out and vainly endeavored to follow the course, but the fleet feet of this timid one were beyond all other speed.

"Sherlock" then changed his program so as to take Science the last period from Miss Graham. He found nothing unusual in that class, except that an especially healthy complexion always came over its victim as he gently answered "Here" to "Felix" at roll call, and it brightened again as he prepared for his exit. But on one fateful day "Felix" proved that "Sherlock" was not needed on this case, for he performed the detective stunt himself. When Miss Graham called "Felix" at roll call, he mustered all his courage and answered with as brave a voice as possible, "Present, but my name ain't Felix."

The deed was done and the mystery was solved. After that moment the mild Wilfred moved peacefully and undisturbed through the hall after the last class of the day, and many have almost forgotten this boy with the crimson face.

His embarrassment is now over and he is called by his proper name and is not being mistaken for "Felix."

BOYS' CONFERENCE CLEARWATER LAKE

A High School boys' conference was held at the Boy Scout Camp at Clearwater Lake last Friday and Saturday.

The Camp was organized by Alfred Dillan of the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of giving the boys a pleasant week-end and to promote a better school spirit both in athletics and in all other matters when school spirit can be shown to as much advantage. It was attended by about 20 boys, many of whom were football men who were especially invited and was supervised by Alfred Dillan and Coach Beresford.

The bunch left the school about 3 and after time had been taken out for getting ready, arrived at the camp about 5. After a dinner, they had a Camp-Fire, when many High School activities were discussed and then they retired to their tents, where the real activity of the camp began.

Boys were running around after their blankets which had mysteriously disappeared in their absence, usually finding them flying from a flag pole in lieu of a flag. After they had finally settled down, then in a few minutes, as it seemed to them, they were rudely awakened at the ridiculous hour of 6:30 by a deluge of cold water in their faces. They got up and some even had the hardihood to brave more cold water by going in swimming.

They came in on Saturday afternoon and gathered at the Y, narrating their adventures to the unlucky ones who did not go.

WELCOME TEACHERS

The pupils of Brainerd High welcome the few new teachers that came here to help us along with our fund of knowledge. Of course, we were all glad with being with the old ones again, but last year we paid the welcome to them.

Miss Bowers is our French and Eng. II teacher, and grand exalted ruler of the Junior I assembly. She can rattle off French as fast as the "Dispatch's Steel Man."

Then comes Miss Huntly, who handles all the Modern History and can give any one points from the Bronze Age to the fall of Lloyd George.

But who says, "A stitch in time saves nine?" Why, of course, Miss Van Beek. She'll gladly explain everything about darning a sock or making a hat.

Miss Cedarstrand keeps lazy bones limber, and is going to lead our girls to victory. The "freshies" are also taught by her to cross their i's and dot their t's.

Miss Graham instructs the "freshies" about the cyclonic region and the Crusade Period. In plain, she teaches General Science and ancient history.

Folks, have you seen the new Beresford coach? Yes, our latest out. Well, for coach or not, he'll make other towns envious of our score. For we all trust he'll pull us through to victory every time.

FOR ONE DAY ONLY

For one day during the last week long pants of the very latest balloon type draped the athletic physique of Bobby Anderson, freshman, but only for a day, since then they have been replaced in the family

Freshman's Lament

I am a little freshman, and I go to Brainerd High.
The boys and girls all laugh at me, I cannot figure why.
When I hurry down the hall, so's not to be late for class
Dear Miss Tornstrom will make her call, "Don't crowd my little lass."
Then all of a sudden I am lost, and know not where I am.
I try the other stairway, it seems a better plan.
Then spake one upper classman, in accent kind said he,
"To find your way to Algebra, you ride the Zimbanzee."
"Oh, thank you! Thank you, sir," I gasped out brokenly,
"And what can that thing you mention be?"
His answer was a wicked smile; fast sped I down the hall.
For all-day September eighth, I didn't see Miss Schow at all.
I am a little freshman, and I go to Brainerd High,
The boys and girls all laugh at me, I cannot figure why.

IMPRESSIONS OF BRAINERD H. S.

A person coming from another high school which has practically the same number of pupils will naturally have imprinted on his mind some first impressions and will also begin a series of comparisons between it and the other school. How would Brainerd High school register in such a case?

Loyal members of this High School will say it is one of the best; the person from the other place will probably remain faithful for a time to his former school. After he has attended classes in this new school for three weeks, however, he should be completely won over to it. He should be ready to give his whole support to its activities.

It is always true that he is won over if there are enough things to win him over and of course there are those things in Brainerd High.

He or she will be primarily interested in the pupils themselves. Are they a good group of boys and girls? Have they shown this new-comer at least some cordiality? Are they interested in having him interested in their High School? Are they filled with "pep" and the right school spirit?

Most of the B. H. students do come up to these expectations. This has been proved by what other boys and girls, who have not always gone to school here, say.

The faculty also comes in for its share of criticism, friendly or otherwise. Well, can this particular new-comer find any fault with the faculty? No, he surely can't, because its members are all carefully selected and are all capable. Old students know this and new students soon discover it. Why, Brainerd High School wouldn't have any but the best!

The school itself is probably considered from many standpoints. Does it fall short? "Decidedly not," says the loyal Brainonian. "Doesn't it rank as one of the highest in educational facilities? Don't we offer athletics of all sorts for both boys and girls? Don't we have just the 'poppiest' games with many different schools? Don't we have Glee Clubs and Debate Clubs and a dandy high school paper?"

The answer would be the same for all of those questions, so the students have reason to be proud to be attending this school.

They shouldn't stop there, however, but should keep on making out-siders have this same impression of the school by making it always live up to its reputation.

Mr. Johnson: "Kay, take the front seat." (Kay moves to second seat from front). "Way up in front." Kay Nolan (in cry of agony)—"Oh! Mr. Johnson!"

STAPLES 19, BRAINERD 0

Playing on a slippery, muddy field, the local gridgers lost the first game of the season at Staples, 19 to 0. This defeat does not mean discouragement, but merely the stepping stone to the making of a winning team. Due to the fact that most of the line-up is of inexperienced men, and, taking into consideration Staples' veteran team, a victory could hardly be expected. Staples "pulled" a fake play and got their first touchdown in the first quarter. They also succeeded in kicking goal for the extra point. The second touchdown came in the second quarter as a result of another fake play and a couple of line plunges. The third quarter, after an intercepted pass and a few line plays, they failed to make the extra point. The second quarter as a result of another fake play and a couple of line plunges. The third touchdown came in the third quarter after an intercepted pass and a few line plays. They failed to make the extra points. In the last quarter the ball saw-sawed back and forth on Staples' side of the field and several times Brainerd threatened the goal.

Tribur, Putz, Whitlock and Lawrence played best for Brainerd. The inexperienced men on the line also deserve their share of the credit. Phillips starred for Staples, making two of the touchdowns.

Coach Beresford has checked up on all the weak points and a hard workout is expected for the coming week. The next game will be played at Little Falls the coming Saturday.

Tremendous Benefit Of Karnak Explained

Remarkable Medicine Just Put On Sale In Brainerd by Johnson's Pharmacy And The Economy Drug Co. And Every Other Reliable Druggist, Is Producing Such Amazing Results—Thousands Ask Reason For Its Powers.

KARNAK EXECUTIVE

MAKES STATEMENT

Explaining the record-breaking demand for the remarkable new medicine, Karnak, now on sale in Brainerd at Johnson's Pharmacy and the Economy Drug Co., and every other reliable druggist, L. M. Carroll, special representative of the manufacturers, stated last night that the hundreds of questions now being asked all over Brainerd, made it imperative that some explanation be made to satisfy public interest.

Speaking of the intense interest of the public in regard to Karnak, he said:

"Thousands of the most prominent people; in fact, people representing all walks of life, in the United States where this medicine has produced such wonderful results, are even more enthusiastic over Karnak than the manufacturers themselves."

"In explanation of this, it should be stated that Karnak is believed to be the first actual direct specific for catarrhal inflammation of the stomach, or what is more commonly known as dyspepsia or indigestion."

Dyspepsia and Its Effects.

Vital statistics show that a catarrhal inflammation of the lining of the stomach, or what is more commonly known as dyspepsia, or indigestion, is the cause of nearly all human ills.

Fully 90% of the American people suffer from this condition, and most of our common ailments are traced to this source, according to carefully compiled records.

CARE OF GLADIOLI IN THE WINTER

Proper Time to Take Up These Bulbs
as Well as Dahlia
Bulbs in Fall

SUGGESTIONS ARE OFFERED

Crow Wing County Garden Flower
Society Says Harvesting and
Packing is Important

A number of Brainerd people are inquiring about the care of gladioli and dahlia bulbs during the winter, and the proper time to take up these bulbs this fall. For their information the Crow Wing County Garden Flower society is offering the following suggestions which will be of much value in assuring growth next season:

Care of Gladioli Bulbs

Before the ground freezes in the fall dig up the bulbs, using a spading fork if possible. Take up the bulbs carefully if you desire to save the bulbets, and cut off the stalk about one-half inch from the bulb. Allow to dry for a week or more before removing the old corm from the new bulb and the bulbets.

The old corm is worthless and should be thrown away. Plant the bulbets the following spring in shallow trenches and the second year they should flower. After removing the old corm and bulbets allow the bulbs to be exposed to the sun or other heat until thoroughly dried and cured, then pack in bags or shallow boxes and place for the winter in a cool dry place in the cellar where the temperature will not go below freezing point.

Care of Dahlia Bulbs

The harvesting and packing for winter is very important, upon which depends the success of next year's blooms. Dahlias should be harvested shortly after their foliage has been killed by frost, for the strength of the stalk recedes into the bulbs at that time. By digging two or three days after the plant is killed by frost, the clumps or bulbs are in a perfectly dormant condition, have no sprouts, and keep perfectly all winter, sending out sprouts in the spring, which is the proper time.

Dahlias may be dug with a fork or spade, but in this harvesting great care must be used. The bulbs must not be pulled up. The bulbs are usually found in clusters, each bulb having a neck which is the small portion between the bulb and the stalk. In digging up the clumps care must be taken not to break the necks of the bulbs. If they are cracked, girdled or broken the necks will dry up or decay.

After removing the clumps of bulbs shake gently to remove the soil that will naturally fall off. Cut off tops within two or three inches of the tops of the clumps, allowing them to be exposed to the sun and air for only an hour or two. Do not allow them to stay out two or three days to dry up, then wonder why they are withered and fail to sprout.

Pack the bulbs in a cool, frost-proof place where extremes of temperature may be avoided, a place having an average temperature of about 45 degrees. Do not cover or pack in any material or with any substance. Simply pack clumps one on top of the other, placing each clump upside down. Dahlias in an old-fashioned cellar will keep first-class without any covering; in a cellar having a cement floor or that is heated, the boxes of bulbs should be lined with heavy paper and covered with paper or burlap to exclude the air and preserve a more even temperature. Do not divide the clumps until spring.

YOM KIPPUR OBSERVED

Group of Brainerd Worshipers Return From Duluth and
Twin Cities

A number of Brainerd people returned today from Duluth and the Twin Cities, where they observed Yom Kippur, the Hebrew Day of Atonement, which started at sundown on Saturday evening, September 26th, and closed on Monday evening "when the stars come out."

Among those going from this city were A. Ginsberg, who went to St. Paul, S. Newman and Jacob Borken to Duluth, Dr. A. K. Cohen, Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt, C. W. Milkes and A. Zimmerman to Minneapolis.

The Day of Atonement is observed by orthodox Jews by special services in their synagogues lasting all day, by prayers, fasting, and the making of donations either to needy families or to Jewish denominational institutions. It is a holy season in which the people make atonement for their sins of the past year.

Yom Kippur is also the beginning of the Jewish new year, which fell on the 19th of September. The first ten days of this new year are the days of atonement from the sins of the past year, and on the final day of the ten, which was on Monday, September 28th, the Hebrews are given atonement.

This new year, instead of being a season of feasting and merrymaking as is the beginning of the calendar year, is a period of prayer and fasting and repentance.

ELECTION OF SENIOR OFFICERS

Thursday at three-thirty the Senior class held a meeting at which the officers for the year were elected. A nominating committee had previously listed the candidates who were thought suitable to hold the different positions.

There are a large number of events taking place during the last year of High School which call for able leadership. Experience is always a valuable thing, and as Stewart Gile made an admirable Junior president, there is every reason to expect that this year he would be well suited for Senior president. The class seemed to be of the same opinion, for Stewart was chosen as pilot for the class of '26.

Then, of course, he must have an able assistant. Kenneth Olthoff, vice president, is just the one for that position.

Esther Bentley, elected class secretary, will conscientiously do her part during the coming year as she is known to do other things unassumingly but correctly.

Probably some people imagine that being class treasurer is an easy position. If Raymond Nicholson had that idea, he will discover before the year is over that he had been misinformed. But we all know that Raymond will prove capable in any situation which may develop.

Then there is the sergeant at arms whose purpose is to see that order is prevalent at all meetings. This is also more difficult than it seems, because you see there may be a great deal of commotion occurring in some of the spirited class meetings sure to take place; but the class knew what it was about in this case as well as the others as Richard Marshall was elected.

So with Stewart Gile as president, Kenneth Olthoff as vice-president, Esther Bentley as secretary, Raymond Nicholson as treasurer, and Richard Marshall as sergeant at arms, the Senior class has a good start towards accomplishing big things.

JUNIOR ELECTION HELD ON MONDAY

On Monday night, September 21, the election of Junior officers was held in Miss Mosier's room. The great majority of them turned out in full force, full of energy and ready to vote for their candidates. Margaret O'Brien, our last year's president, took charge of the crowd in her capable way and soon brought the room to order. After each office was filled, there was much hurrying and stamping of feet to show that it met with the approval of nearly all.

The officers elected are as follows: President—Margaret O'Brien. Vice-president—Calvin Orth. Secretary—Dorothy Deering. Treasurer—Raymond Anderson. Sergeant-at-arms—Russell Putz. Class Adviser—Miss Mosier.

Margaret proved such a good president last year that we are certainly glad she is at the helm again. We know that we are in for a good time especially with the able help of our cool-headed vice-president, Cal Orth, and our peppy and energetic adviser, Miss Mosier.

Dee Deering, our secretary, is already proving her worth by going out after the dues in her merry way and meeting with much success. But then, I ask you, who could refuse her?

Everybody knows Ray Anderson, who is our invaluable treasurer. Even the president of the bank would trust him with the keys of the safe. We confidently expect good results from him.

Russell Putz, who is sergeant at arms, is one of our football heroes of last year and consequently is one of our popular fellows. He certainly ought to be as good in his bouncing act as the rest of the officers in theirs.

Immediately after the election, Stewart Gile, the Senior president, appeared on the scene with an invitation to a picnic at Gilbert Lake on Friday, Oct. 2nd; the Juniors joyfully accepted.

Eats! Did you get that? Hot dogs and dog houses. Come on, Juniors, run 'em ragged.

Send Out Thy Light

The students who have inherited the right to sit in the room of high and mighty Seniors must begin to realize the responsibility that rests upon their broad shoulders. At last they can look scornfully down upon the under classmen and say, "Don't you envy us? Do you think you will ever attain the heights we have achieved? Ah you poor miserable beings who are so far beneath us—do you little insignificant freshmen—do you fully comprehend our importance? We are likened unto a stellar light sending our rays of brilliance throughout the day but your pale little greenish gleam is destined to flicker dimly until you, too, some day may burst into fame. But until you do, you must live in oblivion until three more classes of Seniors have passed into the 'great beyond'."

EDITORIAL

BRAINIONIAN

After a month of school the students of the High School are entering into the daily activities of the school; the Freshmen have accustomed themselves to the change of routine and to the rules of the school; football practice has started and the first game of the season has been played, and now the first issue of the Brainionian has been edited.

For the success of all of these things, each of the four hundred and seventy pupils now enrolled must do his share for the furtherment of these necessary activities, and for their own good each one must obey the rules of the school to get what he can out of this school year.

While obedience to the regulations and appliances to studies are the essential qualities that go to make a good student, yet you can not be a good student of the High School if you do not enter wholeheartedly into the activities of the school. If you have ability in athletics, you should, if you have any school spirit, go out for football. If you have ability in scholarship, do not be content with a passing grade or even a "Fair or Good" make if an A mark can be obtained, and if you have any ability in journalism, even if you cannot spare the time to be on the regular staff you can make contributions to this paper; but even if you are out for football or interested in other things, do not lose sight of your regular school work, for after all, the prime requisite of the year is to get the most out of your studies.

A HAPPENING IN THE GENERAL SCIENCE CLASS

When Miss Graham's door opened from her last period General Science class, at the end of each day, among the students, emerged one boy with an unusually red face, who dashed through the crowded hall to avoid the embarrassment of being viewed by upper-classmen, while in such a colorful state. All those in the hall watched the "red streak" on his hasty flight for shelter. This happened once, twice, three times and over again, until finally "Sherlock" reported, a bit late, but bent upon solving the mystery by hook or by crook. For days "Sherlock" watched him come out and vainly endeavored to follow the course, but the fleet feet of this timid one were beyond all other speed.

"Sherlock" then changed his program so as to take Science the last period from Miss Graham. He found nothing unusual in that class, except that an especially healthy complexion always came over its victim as he gently answered "Here" to "Felix" at roll call, and it brightened again as he prepared for his exit. But on one fateful day "Felix" proved that "Sherlock" was not needed on this case, for he performed the detective stunt himself. When Miss Graham called "Felix" at roll call, he mustered all his courage and answered with as brave a voice as possible, "Present, but my name ain't Felix."

The deed was done and the mystery was solved. After that moment the mild Wilfred moved peacefully and undisturbed through the hall after the last class of the day, and many have almost forgotten this boy with the crimson face.

His embarrassment is now over and he is called by his proper name and is not being mistaken for "Felix." A. G. J.

BOYS' CONFERENCE CLEARWATER LAKE

A High School boys' conference was held at the Boy Scout Camp at Clearwater Lake last Friday and Saturday.

The Camp was organized by Alfred Dillan of the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of giving the boys a pleasant week-end and to promote a better school spirit both in athletics and in all other matters when school spirit can be shown to as much advantage. It was attended by about 20 boys, many of whom were football men who were especially invited and was supervised by Alfred Dillan and Coach Beresford.

The bunch left the school about 3 and after time had been taken out for getting ready, arrived at the camp about 5. After a dinner, they had a Camp-Fire, when many High School activities were discussed and then they retired to their tents, where the real activity of the camp began.

Boys were running around after their blankets which had mysteriously disappeared in their absence, usually finding them flying from the flag pole in lieu of a flag. After they had finally settled down, then in a few minutes, as it seemed to them, they were rudely awakened at the ridiculous hour of 6:30 by a deluge of cold water in their faces. They got up and some even had the hardihood to brave more cold water by going in swimming.

They came in on Saturday afternoon and gathered at the Y, narrating their adventures to the unlucky ones who did not go.

Freshman's Lament

I am a little freshman, and I go to Brainerd High. The boys and girls all laugh at me, I cannot figure why. When I hurry down the hall, so's not to be late for class Dear Miss Tornstrom will make her call, "Don't crowd my little lass." Then all of a sudden I am lost, and know not where I am. I try the other stairway, it seems a better plan. Then spake one upper classman, in accent kind said he, "To find your way to Algebra, you ride the Zimbanzee." "Oh, thank you! Thank you, sir," I gasped out brokenly, "And what can that thing you mention be?" His answer was a wicked smile; fast sped I down the hall. For all-day September eighth, I didn't see Miss Schow at all. I am a little freshman, and I go to Brainerd High. The boys and girls all laugh at me, I cannot figure why.

—Ruth Setula.

IMPRESSIONS OF BRAINERD H. S.

A person coming from another high school which has practically the same number of pupils will naturally have impressions on his mind some first impressions and will also begin a series of comparisons between it and the other school. How would Brainerd High school register in such a case?

Loyal members of this High School will say it is one of the best; the person from the other place will probably remain faithful for a time to his former school. After he has attended classes in this new school for three weeks, however, he should be completely won over to it. He should be ready to give his whole support to its activities.

It is always true that he is won over if there are enough things to win him over and of course there are those things in Brainerd High.

He or she will be primarily interested in the pupils themselves. Are they a good group of boys and girls? Have they shown this new-comer at least some cordiality? Are they interested in having him interested in their High School? Are they filled with "pep" and the right school spirit?

Most of the B. H. students do come up to these expectations. This has been proved by what other boys and girls, who have not always gone to school here, say.

The faculty also comes in for its share of criticism, friendly or otherwise. Well, can this particular new-comer find any fault with the faculty? No, he surely can't, because its members are all carefully selected and are all capable. Old students know this and new students soon discover it. Why, Brainerd High School wouldn't have any but the best!

The school itself is probably considered from many standpoints. Does it fall short? "Decidedly not," says the loyal Brainionian. "Doesn't it rank as one of the highest in educational facilities? Don't we offer athletics of all sorts for both boys and girls? Don't we have just the 'peppiest' games with many different clubs? Don't we have Glee Clubs and Debate Clubs and a dandy high school paper?"

The answer would be the same for all of those questions, so the students have reason to be proud to be attending this school.

They shouldn't stop there, however, but should keep on making outsiders have this same impression of the school by making it always live up to its reputation.

Mr. Johnson: "Kay, take the front seat." (Kay moves to second seat from front). "Way up in front." Kay Nolan (in cry of agony)—"Oh! Mr. Johnson!"

WELCOME TEACHERS

The pupils of Brainerd High welcome the few new teachers that came here to help us along with our fund of knowledge. Of course, we were all glad with being with the old ones again, but last year we paid the welcome to them.

Miss Bowers is our French and Eng. II teacher, and grand exalted ruler of the Junior I assembly. She can rattle off French as fast as the "Dispatch's Steel Man."

Then comes Miss Huntly, who handles all the Modern History and can give any one points from the Bronze Age to the fall of Lloyd George.

But who says, "A stitch in time saves nine?" Why, of course, Miss Van Beek. She'll gladly explain everything about darned a sock or making a hat.

Miss Cedarstrand keeps lazy bones limber, and is going to lead our girls to victory. The "freshies" are also taught by her to cross their i's and dot their t's.

Miss Graham instructs the 'froshes' about the cyclonic region and the Crusade Period. In plain, she teaches General Science and ancient history.

Folks, have you seen the new Beresford coach? Yes, our latest out. Well, ford coach or not, he'll make other towns envious of our score. For we all trust he'll pull us through to victory every time.

FOR ONE DAY ONLY

For one day during the last week long pants of the very latest balloon type draped the athletic physique of Bobby Anderson, freshman, but only for a day, since then they have been replaced in the family

STAPLES 19, BRAINERD 0

Playing on a slippery, muddy field, the local gridgers lost the first game of the season at Staples, 19 to 0. This defeat does not mean discouragement, but merely the stepping stone to the making of a winning team. Due to the fact that most of the line-up is of inexperienced men, and, taking into consideration Staples' veteran team, a victory could hardly be expected. Staples "pulled" a fake play and got their first touchdown in the first quarter. They also succeeded in kicking goal for the extra point. The second touchdown came in the second quarter as a result of another fake play and a couple of line plunges. The third quarter, after an intercepted pass and a few line plays, they failed to make the extra point. The second quarter as a result of another fake play and a couple of line plunges. The third touchdown came in the third quarter after an intercepted pass and a few line plays. They failed to make the extra points. In the last quarter the ball saw-sawed back and forth on Staples' side of the field and several times Brainerd threatened the goal.

Tribur, Putz, Whitlock and Lawrence played best for Brainerd. The inexperienced men on the line also deserve their share of the credit. Phillips starred for Staples, making two of the touchdowns.

Coach Beresford has checked up on all the weak points and a hard workout is expected for the coming week. The next game will be played at Little Falls the coming Saturday.

IF YOU COULD SEE THE HEAT IN COAL

You would realize at once that a load of STANDARD COAL contains a full measure of heat and a load of ordinary unprepared coal only a short measure of heat.

The difference in heat value is due to the low ash content of STANDARD COAL and to the careful, systematic way in which STANDARD COAL is mined and cleaned, so that no visible, non-combustible impurities and wastes are shipped.

Freight charges are the same on STANDARD COAL as on the ordinary, unprepared, dirty coal. Delivered heat value alone counts. For a full measure of heat, use STANDARD COAL.
